Last semester did not work out, therefore we will be doing it the week before the MC's need to know it. It will be posted online and you will have a week to do it. If you fail to take the quiz within the week you will get in a zero. If you do not have a total of 80% then it will carry over into the next semester and that may affect big/little choosing.

Attendance:

We had to cancel things many times and start everything late, which is extremely disrespectful. It will be a closed door policy. If you are not there when the event starts then the door will be shut and you will not be allowed in. It will be consider an absence if you are on the other side of that door. Call who ever is running the event
