Tote Bags:

This wasn't as successful as we thought it might be at Districts, mostly because the merchandise set-up wasn't convenient (and no one particularly wanted to sit with the bags) and I had a hard time getting help from the chapter to sell them during down time. We did sell 3, so we broke even outside of our own chapter.

- With that said, now's your chance to buy one for your secret sister! As explained in my email, I have numbered the bags. They're going at a first-come, first-served basis, so if you want to give one to your secret sister, send me a little note with the number of your bag, the person to deliver it to, and the money owed (if you really want to give one and you don't have the money with it, figure out some secretive way to get it to me via a few people or something – be creative if you want to keep it a secret). By doing it this way, I won't find out who everyone's secret sisters are. I'll take down the bags as they're sold, so it's fair. Bags are free game for people to buy for themselves after tonight.

Surveys

- YAY we made our goal for the first month!

Membership:

District Penpals: Still waiting to hear from Pittsburg

Alumni Penpals: The point of having penpals is to talk to alumni, not to fill the binder for the golden typewriter. So, keep talking! These are the people I have received e-mails from in regards to alumni:

I still need stuff from:

Caitlin- Rachel

Lauren- Diana (I have Diana's stuff)

K-dye- Liz Freniere

Emily- Sandrah

Sam - Liz

Kait- Jill

Dana- Jackie

Please send me your stuff!

Delta Delta Delivers: It's done! I'm just waiting for approval from

Liz and Mr. Parks. It will be getting put together Thursday April 3rd at 4:00 in the Band Apartments

Alumni Day: 12:00 at Band Apartments/Basketball court, lunch potluck, family double dare, alumni degree, out for dinner after (optional)

Sister Marone moves to have Alumni Day Saturday April 5, 2008
Sister Iaconetti seconds
Motion passes

Delta Nu visit: most likely coming weekend of Concert band concert. If you have ideas let me know! I want to do something Saturday afternoon, lunch after rehearsal then something fun outside if it's nice or DDR at someone's apartment. Then on Sunday go to concert and utilize comp tickets that people aren't using.

New Business:

Fundraising:

Surveys

- I'm going to send out biweekly emails with a list that has everyone's name and the dollar amount you've made (as of the date I publish the report). I'd also like to include rankings among the rest of the chapter so that you can see where you stand. Because some of us qualify for more surveys than others do, I'll rank according to market points and dollar amount. Some friendly competition never hurt, and maybe it'll motivate us to check for surveys more often.
- Going to invite alumni to do the surveys

CC Table

- We're going to do a DDR table!
- I need someone who can volunteer their system and pads for the day.
- We also need either a television or a screen and projector if that works with a gaming system.
- It'll cost $1 to play a song, either by yourself or with a friend.
- I would like to do this near the end of the semester when people spend more time in the campus center. Book buyback time would be ideal, but I'm not sure where those dates are posted. Graduating seniors and prospective students will especially be spending a lot of time there buying apparel, etc., so I think we may have a good audience.
- Best of all, it's FREE! We can put out an extra donation can, too.
- It will be the week of... and people will volunteer for the day that works best for them.

Upscale Bake Sale

- At Ways and Means at Districts, someone from another chapter discussed an "upscale" bake sale that their chapter did. Rather than making brownies, simple cookies, and so on, they made different, interesting foods and wrapped them nicely in cellophane and tied them with ribbon. They made I believe $300 profit in 2 days.
- I'd like to do this at Wal-Mart on a Friday before the end of the semester. It can even be during finals week, if that's what works best (I know some people have a very spread-out schedule).
- The Wal-Mart in Northampton has an average of 26,000 visits a day and since this is a very health-conscious area, healthy breads, cookies, and muffins will be great. We can research recipes together in the library – it doesn't have to be complicated, just something that you wouldn't normally see at a bake sale – and we can take advantage of the extra Valentine's Day bags I have to wrap them up.

Membership

Schedule dates for quiz/ night

- The 18th date of relay for life
- New assignment
- What makes you a responsible member of the sisterhood? What are three things you would like yourself to improve on by next semester? Name one personal short term goal, and one personal long term goal (ex: Hold an office, chair a committee, contribute more to service/fundraising ideas, ect.)

Service:

Instrument Drive:

I will create a master list and divide it up within the sisterhood. Send me your home address, if you plan on returning home for the summer and/ or winter break.

It will be done according to where you live. You will be responsible for bring the letter to the school's director or principle, then getting the instruments to me. We will be packing them up and sending them to the school. I will get an estimate of how much this is going to cost.

Date for Women in Music Speaker will be April 18th and Lauren and Danni will be going
